MY FIRST PAPER COLLAR.

[From the Danbury News.]

Paper collars are well enough understood now, and the addition of cloth lining has worked a wonderful improvement in the article. The boy who tries his first collar in this day has none of the trials or apprehension of the boy of ten or fifteen years ago. We remember with unpleasant distinctness the first paper collar we ever wore. It was at a surprise party. A half-hour after the advent of ourself and the other surprisers we were located in the parlor on a

It was a large stove, with a complicated mass only it was warmer than an organ. The stove, set out from the wall, and our location gave us a prominence that would have been very grateful had we been back of a store looking for lemons, but being a diffident person, and having a strong desire to crawl under the carpet.

on our spirits that we found impossible to shake off. It was quite cold out doors, but the room being full of people, and some thoughtful person having closed the door, the temperature commenced to densify with extraordinary rapidity. All of the party sat around the sides of the room, and in such a way as to take in the stove and ourself. A dreadful silence sat upon all, disturbed only occasionally by a brief whisper of one friend to another which undoubtedly referred to our proximity to the stove, and the weird solemnity of our expression, which we desperately but vainly strove to remedy. We out a handkerchief, but we cherished the hope that some one in the party was not looking at us, and dreaded to make any movement for fear of attracting his attention. Then the ber-gamot and sweet oil with which we had generously fed our locks, with a view to intoxicating the senses of the females in attendance, commenced to ooze forth and start down the back of our neck for fresh pastures. It was at this juncture, the heat of the stove having become unbearable, that the lady of the house inquired if the stove was not too warm for the gentleman. It was our purpose to protest that we never before was so comfortably situated, but the roof of our mouth having dried and cracked open, the words must have got lost in the crevices. But we smiled-such a smile, perbaps as a sick man would exchange with an un-dertaker who had called in to ask after his health. It was at this point we became conscious of our paper-collar. It was pressing against the back of our neck with the ardor of a mustard draft, and one end had broken from the button and was soaring majestically heavenward. We could feel it crumble and fall down on both sides, and every time we put our hands up, which we began to do quite often on account of the cold thrill it gave us, we found it spotted with the vitality of that collar. The has turned heretic, and put forth a discourse on what he laments as the "Want of the dis-this country most needs at the present juncture political ostracism of the South. I do not say that we need a Southern aristocracy, but we need one which shall resemble and exercise some of its best characteristics, and such we need imperatively, North and South, East and West. We need a class with as fine an esprit de corps, with as high sense of honor of per-gress and "wear the flower of a blameless thought, though each hall and every step were beset with the gift-bearing Greeks of corrupting rings seeking to place their gold where it "would do the most good." You may call such a class an aristocracy, or by any opprobrious name; but it is a class we most need in every section of the Union, to stand as a bulwark against the overflow of shoddy, which threatens to drown the political probity and purity of duced or the South claimed to possess.
